Results & Awards Ceremonies

Results

Results from sporting events at the 2000 Arctic Winter Games, along with features on cultural performances, appear in the Ulu News Daily from March 6 to March 11. The Ulu News Daily is circulated in the Whitehorse Star, as well as to the four Matco Participant Residences in Riverdale. Those who can't wait until morning to see a wrap-up of the day's athletic action will enjoy logging onto www.2000awg.sympatico.ca to explore the user-friendly results system designed especially for this event.

Awards Ceremonies

One of the most enduring and unique symbols of the Arctic Winter Games is the ulu medal, modeled on the all-purpose knife traditionally used by Inuit people. At each Arctic Winter Games, ulus are awarded in gold, silver and bronze to recognize first, second and third-place winners in sporting competitions. Coaches and cultural delegates also receive distinctive ulus for their commitments to excellence.

Once you've consulted the Ulu News Daily or AWG website to see who's won the ulus, you'll probably want to be there to witness the pomp and pageantry that accompanies the presentation.

Ulu awards presentations will occur at 4:30 p.m. each day at Lotteries Place beside the Elijah Smith Building on Main Street. The remaining awards presentations occur at sport venues.

Attention Volunteers! Polaroid Camera Up For Grabs

Team 200 Sponsor Polaroid, who has provided digital accreditation for more than 6,000 participants, volunteers and special guests over the past week, has donated a digital PDC-700 camera to the Host Society. All you hardworking volunteers will get a shot at winning this great digital camera by entering the daily draw at the Elks Hall. Names entered into the draw on Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be eligible for the big prize. The winning entry will be drawn from a barrel on Saturday.

A Challenge for All Committees

Listen up! The Volunteers Committee has issued a challenge to all other committees of the 2000AWG. The members of this committee believe that they are unbeatable at music trivia; if you and your committee think they're wrong, head to the Lotteries Yukon Volunteer Drop-In Centre at the Elks Hall at 9:30 tonight.

Closing Ceremonies

The Closing Ceremonies will be held on Saturday, March 11 starting at 6pm in the Northwestel Takhini Arena - and additional tickets are now available!

If you missed out on the Opening Ceremonies, don't pass up this one last opportunity to check out the participants and pageantry that make the Arctic Winter Games the circumpolar north's favourite multi-sport and cultural event. And this time there's no television broadcast, so the only way to be part of it all is to be there in person.

While quantities last, tickets for the Closing Ceremonies can be purchased for $15 each at the Hougou Centre Box Office.
